P R E F A C E

CONQUERING LION OF THE TRIBE OF JUDAH HAILE SELASSIE I ELECT OF GOD, EMPEROR OF ETHIOPIA

The Civil Code has been promulgated by Us at a time when the progress achieved by Ethiopia requires the modernisation of the legal framework of Our Empire's social structure so as to keep pace with the changing circumstances of this world of today. In order to consolidate the progress already achieved and to facilitate yet further growth and development, precise and detailed rules must be laid down regarding those problems which do not only face the individual citizen but the nation as a whole. The rules contained in this Code are in harmony with the well-established legal traditions of Our Empire and the principles enshrined in the Revised Constitution granted by Us on the occasion of the Silver Jubilee of Our Coronation, and have called, as well, upon the best systems of law in the world.

No law which is designed to define the rights and duties of the people and to set out the principles governing their mutual relations can ever be effective if it fails to reach the heart of those to whom it is intended to apply and does not respond to their needs and customs and to natural justice. In preparing the Civil Code, the Codification Commission convened by Us and whose work We have directed has constantly borne in mind the special requirements of Our Empire and of Our beloved subjects and has been inspired in its labours by the genius of Ethiopian legal traditions and institutions as revealed by the ancient and venerable Fetha Negest.

It is essential that the law be clear and intelligible to each and every citizen of Our Empire, so that he may without difficulty ascertain what are his rights and duties in the ordinary course of life, and this has been accomplished in the Civil Code. It is equally important that a law which embraces a varied and diverse subject matter, as is the case with the Civil Code, form a consistent and unified whole, and this requirement, too, is fully satisfied by the law which We promulgate today.

The careful preparation of this Code by the Codification Commission and the pains taking review which it has received in Our Parliament assure that this law will achieve the purpose for which it is intended. With the guidance of the Almighty, Fountain of Justice and Source of all wisdom and benefits, this Code will contribute to the progress of Our Empire and the welfare of Our beloved subjects of today and of the future.

Given in the 30th year of Our Reign, this 5th day of May, 1960.

HAILE SELASSIE I
Emperor

Art. 2286. — Compromise.

Where the buyer acknowledges the right of a third party outside judicial proceedings or he has entered into a compromise with such third party, he may not avail himself of the warranty given by the seller unless he can show that the latter could not have prevented dispossession.

- (2) Regard shall in addition be had to the normal expenses of a purchase in replacement or compensatory sale.

Art. 3178. — Set-off.

Set-off may not be invoked by a person contracting with the administrative authorities except in the case of debts other than fiscal debts.

A — Prerogatives of administrative authorities

Art. 3181. — Compensation.

- (1) The party who has contracted with the administrative authorities shall be entitled to compensation equal to the loss sustained by him by reason of the modification or termination of the contract.
- (2) In fixing such compensation, regard shall be had to all the benefits which the party could legitimately expect to derive from the contract.

- (3) The court may, however, limit the amount of compensation in so far as it refers to loss of profit, where it appears that the modification or termination of the contract is due to extraneous causes and not to a fault of the administrative authorities which have concluded the contract.

Art. 3182. — Termination at the request of other party.

- (1) The party who has contracted with the administrative authorities may require the termination of the contract where an intervention by the administrative authorities has as its effect to upset the general economy of the contract.
- (2) The court shall determine whether, having regard to the nature of the contract, the importance of the modifications made thereto by the administrative authorities exceeds or not what could be expected on the making of the contract.
- (3) Unless otherwise expressly agreed, the party may not of his own motion declare the termination of the contract.

B — Unforeseen circumstances

Art. 3183. — Principle.

- (1) Where circumstances which could not be foreseen on the making of the contract upset the balance of the contract, the party contracting with the administrative authorities shall perform his obligations where such performance remains materially possible.
- (2) Such person may, however, require that the administrative authorities with which he has contracted assist him in overcoming the supervening difficulties by sharing in the loss arising from such circumstances.

Art. 3184. — Upsetting of contract.

The balance of the contract shall be deemed to be upset where new circumstances impose on the party contracting with the administrative authorities additional obligations which certainly surpass the extreme limits which could be expected by the parties on the making of the contract.

Art. 3185. — Unforeseeable events.

- (1) An event shall be deemed to be unforeseeable where it could not reasonably be envisaged by the parties on the making of the contract.
- (2) An event shall not be deemed to be unforeseeable where it is due to the act of the person who avails himself thereof.
- (3) The fact that an event was not foreseen may be invoked by reason of unforeseeable consequences or an unforeseeable extension of events which had already happened on the making of the contract.

Art. 3186. — Provisions for the variation or revision of prices.

The existence in the contract of a provision relating to the variation or revision of prices shall not prevent compensation being due where:

- (a) such provision has not been enforced; or
- (b) it appears that the enforcement of such provision is not sufficient to remedy the effects of the economic upsetting of the contract, as in the case where there are fluctuations affecting elements other than those which have been chosen as an index in the variation clause.

Art. 3187. — Loss necessary.

No compensation may be claimed where circumstances have only reduced or taken away the benefits, without bringing about a loss for the party.

Art. 3188. — Amount of compensation.

- (1) The compensation granted shall leave at the charge of the party a part of the loss arising from the circumstances.
- (2) To this effect, regard shall be had to the efforts made by the party to overcome his difficulties, the general position of the enterprise and all other equitable elements.

Art. 3189. — Cessation of events being considered as unforeseen.

- (1) The state of being unforeseen shall cease where the balance of the contract is re-established.

C — Acts of Government

Art. 3190. — General measures. — 1. Affecting substance of contract.

- (1) Laws, regulations, orders and other measures of general application, made by the public authorities, which directly modify the provisions of the contract or prevent the enforcement of some provisions of the contract or prematurely put an end to the performance of the contract shall enable the party having contracted with the administrative authorities to claim compensation.
- (2) Such compensation may not be refused unless the measure of general application has specified that no compensation shall be paid.

Art. 3191. — 2. Making the performance of the contract more onerous.

- (1) Measures of general application taken by the public authorities shall not create any right to compensation where, without affecting the substance of the contract, they only modify the conditions of its performance and render such performance more difficult or more onerous.

- (2) Compensation shall however be due where the measure made or the contract itself provides that there shall be a right to compensation.

Art. 3192. — Particular measures. — 1. Taken by contracting authorities.

- (1) Particular measures taken by the contracting public authority shall create a right to compensation in favour of the person contracting with such authority, where they affect the substance of the contract or render the performance of the contract more difficult or more onerous.
- (2) No compensation shall however be due where the measure taken is merely the ascertainment or the inevitable consequence of economic facts extraneous to the parties.

Art. 3193. — 2. Taken by another authority.

- (1) No compensation shall be due where the act which is the cause of the damage emanates from an authority other than that which has concluded the contract.
- (2) In such case, nothing shall affect the rules relating to unforeseen circumstances or to the responsibility of public authorities.

Paragraph 3. — Non-performance of contracts

Art. 3194. — Compulsory performance of contracts.

- (1) The court may not order the administrative authorities to perform their obligation.
- (2) It may, however, make an order for the payment of damages unless the administrative authorities prefer to perform their obligations.

- (b) within three months from the ascertainment, such authorities have not taken steps to make the orders for payments due by them.

Art. 3197. — Clause of non-responsibility.

Notwithstanding any stipulation to the contrary, the party contracting with the administrative authorities may claim from the latter interest for delay or compensation in the case of a delay in effecting payment due to him, where:

- (a) the delay exceeds six months; or
(b) it is due to the contracting administrative authority's intention to cause harm or to its gross negligence or grave fault.

Art. 3198. — Lapse of notice placing party in default.

- (1) Where, after having placed the other party in default, the administrative authorities have begun negotiations with him with a view to resuming the contract on other bases, the notice placing in default shall lapse and need be renewed.
(2) The fact that the administrative authorities have allowed a long period to elapse after the notice without applying any sanction or have continued to have commercial relations with the other party shall not necessarily imply a tacit waiving of the right to apply sanctions and shall not make a new notice necessary.

Art. 3199. — Delay of suppliers.

- (1) The contractant may not raise force majeure on the ground of the delay or default of his own suppliers.
(2) He may not raise that the delay or default of his suppliers constitutes a case of force majeure releasing him from his liability for the non-performance of the contract.

Art. 3200. — Preferential rights.

- (1) The administrative authorities may not themselves decide that the other party is liable to a penalty by reason of the non-performance of the contract.
(2) Nor may they fix the amount of compensation due by the other party by reason of the non-performance or delay in the performance of his obligations.
(3) The court may order the administrative authorities to pay compensation for the damage caused to the other party in consequence of sanctions which such authorities have applied contrary to the law.

Paragraph 4. — Assignment of contracts and sub-contracts

Art. 3201. — Definitions.

- (1) An assignment is an act whereby the party having contracted with the administrative authorities substitutes a third party for himself for the total performance of the contract.

- (1) The administrative authorities shall within a reasonable time answer a request for the making of an assignment or the grant of a sub-contract.
- (2) Where the assignment or sub-contract has been concluded by a grantee of a public service, the administrative authorities may refuse their authorisation only on grounds of technical or financial incapacity of the new grantee who is proposed.
- (3) In other cases, the administrative authorities shall have a discretionary power to approve or refuse to approve the assignment or sub-contract.

Art. 3204. — Sanctions.

- (1) An unauthorised assignment or sub-contract shall not affect the administrative authorities.

Art. 3205. — Effect of authorisation. — 1. Assignment.

- (1) The approval given by the administrative authorities to the assignment of a contract shall have the effect of substituting the assignee for the original contractant.

- (2) The original party shall remain liable for the works done and supplies made by the sub-contractor as though they had been done or made by himself.
- (3) The approval of the sub-contractor by the administrative authorities shall however imply the exoneration of the contractant from the penalties for delay, where such delay is attributable to the sub-contractor.

- (1) The control of the concession may not be such as to alter the nature of such concession and to transform it in fact in a direct exploitation by the administrative authorities.
- (2) The administrative authorities may not subject a whole section of the activity of the grantee to a system of preliminary approvals.
- (3) Unless otherwise provided, the grantee may freely determine the manner in which he will perform the contract.

Art. 3211. — 4. Interpretation of contracts.

- (1) The provisions of the contract may not be interpreted as being an obstacle to the application of new regulations concerning the control of the management and the regulation of public order.
- (2) The administrative authority, however, may not give the force of regulations to measures intended to control and to ensure the performance of his contractual obligations by the grantee.

Art. 3212. — Contractual modification of prices or tariffs. — 1. Principle.

Art. 3214. — 3. Revision clauses.

- (1) The contract may confine itself to stipulating that the prices and the tariffs shall be revised where economic circumstances change considerably, without establishing precisely the bases of such revision.

- (2) He may not invoke such clauses on account of variations which take place after the expiry of the normal time laid down for the performance of his obligations under the contract unless an extension of such time has been expressly granted to him by the administrative authorities.

Art. 3216. — Unilateral modifications of contract. — 1. Principle.
